Davis County Is Breastfeeding-Friendly

(Clearfield, Utah) – The Davis County Breastfeeding Coalition recently recognized businesses, childcare providers or medical providers for their valuable support of breastfeeding families. With August being celebrated as World Breastfeeding Month, the coalition presented twelve additional businesses in Davis County with special signs to display in their front windows designating that breastfeeding families are welcome and supported at their locations.

“These are exemplary businesses in our community and we are pleased to recognize them this year,” said Teresa Smith, Davis County Breastfeeding Coalition Coordinator. “Yet, we know that there are many more throughout the community that work to provide breastfeeding support for their clients and employees. This support is much needed and so beneficial to each mom, baby, and to society.”

The 2019 awardees are Statera Chiropractic, Davis County Health Department, Hometown Media Inc., Bloom Women’s Center, A Novel Idea Book Parlor, ThomasARTS, Oasis Montessori Schools, Layton Children’s Center, Bryden Academy, Imagination Time, Play2Learn Academy, and Time for Families.

To be eligible for the recognition, the awardees submitted applications providing evidence of breastfeeding-friendly practices such as established policies, welcoming environment, staff training, and employee or client support. Coalition members met with directors or managers and attended staff meetings to present these awards.

The coalition is continually accepting breastfeeding-friendly applications through their Facebook events page at <https://www.facebook.com/DavisCountyBreastfeedingCoalition/>.
